

7th Annual International Undergraduate Poster Competition

Abstract deadline: November 5, 2017

Share your abstract and join us for a week of inspiration this January 2018

If you have amazing ideas and would like to visit one of the world's leading science and technology research universities, we would like to hear from you.

In January 2018, King Abdullah University of Science and Technology (KAUST) is hosting its seventh annual International Poster Competition for undergraduate students around the world. This competition is part of the University's Winter Enrichment Program. This event is a once-in-a-lifetime chance to share and compare your work with peers from across the globe, win prizes and experience life in Saudi Arabia at a premier graduate-level research institution.

All you need to do is submit your best work in poster or video format by November 5, 2017. Authors of up to 50 of the best-accepted abstracts will be invited to spend an exciting, event filled week at KAUST from January 21 to 25, 2018.

While you are at KAUST, you'll present your abstract, visit our state-of-the-art facilities and be inspired by our faculty and students. You'll also have many opportunities to take part in recreational and cultural activities, from culinary delights to local and marine excursions to relaxation on the shores of the Red Sea in our warm, friendly community.

A prestigious panel of experts will judge your submissions, with valuable prizes for winning work. Our judges will be looking for overall impact, novelty of work, clarity of ideas and creativity, so be sure to submit your best, clearest and most creative work.

We look forward to seeing you!
